

Pet Adoption Portal partners with PetStyle.com Top pet website to help 1,000 shelters by joining lifestyle broadband network

The Pet Adoption Portal, a free service provided by RescueGroups.org that allows shelters to automatically and simultaneously send pet data and pictures to the major adoption sites for free, has recently announced that it will join forces with PetStyle.com to expand services for the betterment of animals across the country.

The partnership will allow the nearly 1,000 animal shelters using the Pet Adoption Portal to upload information about adoptable pets to PetStyle.com, the leading broadband network dedicated to dog and cat owners.

“I am pleased to announce that Portal users will now be able to list adoptable pets on one of the best sites available to pet owners,” RescueGroups.org Co-Founder Richard Saffell said. “The goal of the Portal is to utilize technology to help find homes for as many adoptable pets as possible and I appreciate PetStyle.com joining our team to help with this worthwhile mission.”

The Portal is an innovative service that cuts down on the time spent advertising adoptable animals by allowing users to manage the descriptions and pictures of pets through one site, while automatically updating many of the top adoption databases. Users also have the option of designating animals as stray or found to help reunite owners with their lost pets. In addition to PetStyle.com, users can also upload information to nine other adoption database websites.
